We have just add one page to the website which is called research page in which we have put 3 things in header of that page.

- Focus Areas
- Regions
- Search button

On this page we have use Carousel to display the impact stories. On clicking Read more button User can read full reports and can see info graphs and everything related to it.

Then after the impact stories we have some previous year reports poster just below it and clicking the read more button it will display the full report to the user.

On clicking on Focus Area it will direct the user to focus areas of SSCF. And on clicking on each of them it will show the detail reports regarding that things.
After that there is button for regions on clicking on it will redirect to region page where we place 3 button on the map itself which are South-West, Regina, South-East. On clicking on those button it will direct user accordingly to that regions reports and every information they need.

User can search whatever information they need i.e. By Regions, Impact Stories, Reports, Focus Area. And it will show all the information they need.

Thank You
